

UAS: KPMG Meeting Minutes

Call to Order:

A meeting regarding working abroad was held on January 22, 2019 and KPMG representative Spencer Myers was presenting.

Attendees:

- Executive Board: All Present
- KPMG: Spencer Myers, Recruiter (samyers@kpmg.com)

The Global Mindset & Working Abroad

- KPMG encourages its professionals to broaden their mindset through international career opportunities consisting of both short-term and long-term assignments
  - As KPMG operates in over 150 markets worldwide, there are opportunities all around the globe
- Global Advantage Program (GAP)
  - GAP is a three day internationally hosted training for future KPMG interns
    - You will attend partner led sessions that teach you the key attributes of a successful KPMG professional including
      - Leadership
      - Self-awareness
      - Interpersonal impact & cultural versatility
    - Participants also get the opportunity to have several cultural and client experiences while attending the program
- Things to consider before going abroad
  - Consider why you want to go abroad in the first place
    - Instead of thinking of it as a vacation, remember that you are going as a KPMG professional and will be attaining cultural and international experiences first and foremost
    - With that being said, you will still have time to see the sights of wherever you will be working abroad
  - Have a passport ready
  - Have disposable income ready when you are working abroad
  - Have a bucket list of things to do!

Additional Opportunities of students

- KPMG has posted applications which students can apply for on Handshake
  - Opportunities include SLP's to certain full-time position offerings

- Most of the positions are for freshman/sophomores but positions for juniors are also available, either on Handshake or on KPMG's website
