Tips from the Student Panel

- Interviews are social, so it is good to be confident and memorable
  - Many of the professionals know that students don't have an extensive accounting background, so they look more at personality
    - It is also important to know why you want to go into a certain line of service, whether it be audit, tax, or advisory, have an explanation on why you are interested
- What helps on a resume?
  - Prior internships look good
  - Interests are very helpful on a resume, as it lets them know more about your personality and makes it easier to find something in common
- Have professional suit wear and print out enough resumes during networking events

- When choosing a firm look at what clients they service and how you enjoyed the people
- Adjournment

Rebecca Sonn makes a motion to adjourn the meeting, agreed upon at 7:30pm.
